

Brief Overview of Dr. Royal Raymond Rife and Rife Machine Technology

Learn why this information has been hidden from you for almost a century!

As a young man, Rife studied optics and was particularly fascinated by microscopes. He traveled to Germany to sharpen his skills at the Zeiss Optics Company and returned to build the first of five unique microscopes.

He started his cancer research in the early 1920s using the #1 Microscope. This scope provided a view of organisms that had never been seen by the human eye. He discovered how to make normally invisible microbes visible by illuminating each one with the light frequency that matched their own unique resonance frequency, causing them to glow in their own natural color.

His #3 "Universal Microscope", completed in 1933, had 5,682 different parts and was capable of magnifying living objects (not dead on a slide) up to 60,000X their normal size.

Rife killed viruses, bacteria and fungi with the same natural principle that made them visible: resonance. By increasing the intensity of the frequency at which a microbe resonates, its natural oscillation also increases, causing it to die. Rife named this intensified frequency the Mortal Oscillatory Rate, or MOR, and eventually isolated the MOR frequencies of 52 harmful organisms including Typhoid, Tuberculosis, Pneumonia, Syphilis, Candida and Cancer.

Rife completed most of his research at the Rife Research Laboratory in San Diego, CA. His work would eventually be reported in dozens of newspaper and magazine articles, including Popular Science (1932). Well-known institutions, like the Smithsonian and the Franklin Institute, published detailed articles of his accomplishments. There is no lack of evidence that Rife was a gifted genius having spent his life destroying the disease plague that surrounded humankind.

By 1934, Royal Rife had isolated the virus that causes cancer and proved to his supporters that an electronic cure was possible without using harmful methods such as chemical poisons or radiation. In the summer of 1934, a special University of Southern California Medical Research Committee, chaired by Dr. Milbank Johnson (president of Southern California's AMA), was formed to oversee the research of the first cancer clinic using Rife technology. The clinic was held at the Scripps Institute in La Jolla, CA. 16 terminally ill people were treated – people with no hope of recovery under standard treatments. 14 were cured in three months, the other two in six months. It was all documented.

In November 1935, Dr. Johnson opened a second clinic to test these cures, with the same incredible results. In May 1937, Dr. Johnson's third clinic resulted in the same identical cancer cures. The proof was undeniable that Royal Rife had found a non-toxic way to kill cancer.

Meanwhile, in the 1930s, Rife continued his frequency work. In 1935, he built a smaller microscope that could be mass-produced. By June of 1935, four insurance companies were interested in financing Rife provided the International Cancer Foundation gave its approval – it never did.

Early in 1938 The Rife Beam Ray Co. built 14 machines, sent to England, Arizona and California. One doctor cured an 82-year old man from Chicago of terminal cancer, and it was through this man that Morris Fishbein, head of the Chicago AMA found out about Rife and his work. Fishbein visited Rife and tried to buy the company, but Rife and his associates turned Fishbein down when they discovered he planned to put Rife out of business. This refusal to sell created Fishbein's motivation for revenge and he proceeded with an unjust indictment and the ultimate destruction of Rife's life and work.

On June 12, 1938, the AMA criminally indicted Rife for fraudulent medical practices. During his testimony, Rife was so nervous he could not stop shaking. A doctor recommended he take a drink to calm himself, and, sadly, Rife's alcoholism began. During and after the trial the AMA visited all doctors involved with Rife. Those who did not stop using Frequency Instruments lost their medical license.

By 1939, almost all those who had once worked with Rife were denying that they had even met him. Why? Rife had become a very real threat to the international pharmaceutical and medical monopoly that was expanding exponentially.

Gradually, over two decades, equipment components, stop-motion photographs, written records and other meticulously accumulated evidence of Rife's work began disappearing from his lab. Parts of his 5,682 piece Universal Microscope were stolen. Rife struggled to reproduce his missing data at a time when copy machines and computers didn't exist. Finally, police ransacked Rife's lab and illegally confiscated the remainder of his years of research.

We can't make this stuff up folks. It's all documented!

In 1950, Rife collaborated with John Crane, an engineer/scientist. Rife and Crane "re-invented" the Beam Ray and hired an electronics expert with the San Diego police force to help construct the new machines. By 1960, Crane had written and copyrighted a manual explaining how the frequency instrument was to be used in the experimental treatment of various diseases on different parts of the body. 90 new-style instruments were distributed for research and verification on notarized contracts.

Then the AMA struck again. In 1960, John Crane's lab was raided without a search warrant. Over $40,000 in machines, frequency instruments and one large Rife Ray Tube unit, along with engineering data, research records and reports, pictures taken off the walls, private letters, invoices, tape recordings, and electronic parts were all taken. Years of work either confiscated or smashed. As in 1939, doctors who were experimenting with the machines were forced to abandon them.

Rife, almost 73 and unable to endure another trial, went into hiding in Tijuana, Mexico. His deposition was not permitted at the trial. Neither was any of his medical or scientific data. Crane had only testimony from 14 patients. And, although the jury was carefully screened to be certain they had no prior medical or alternative-healing knowledge, the foreman of the jury was an AMA doctor! Crane was sentenced to 10 years in prison, shortened to 3 years and 1 month when two of the three counts were reversed because criminal intent had not been proven. After Crane's imprisonment, one doctor using the equipment gave up medicine and became a salesman and another was relentlessly persecuted by the AMA, until he committed suicide.

Royal Raymond Rife died in 1971 at age 83. His legacy was given to his friend and partner, John Crane, who continued to fight for acceptance of Rife's discoveries until his death in 1995.

Rife's life and work has only recently become public knowledge when in 1987 Barry Lynes published the book "The Cancer cure That Worked: Fifty Years of Suppression". This book helped expose the injustices suffered by Rife and bring the truth of his discoveries to those who want to know about it. This book is included in our DVD & 2 BOOK DEAL for just $20 (applied towards your future ProWave purchase).

The frequency produced by Rife's unique machine was one of the very few approaches known to be free of any harmful side effects. Conventional modern synthetic drugs often produce damaging health effects such as impotence, high blood pressure, hair loss, migraine and damage to your heart, liver, kidneys, immune system and your health in general.

In 1950, Royal Rife joined with his business partner, John Crane who encouraged Rife to continue with his work and develop even newer ways to apply his disease killing frequencies. Together they created the first compact tabletop electronic frequency instrument to be used for the destruction of harmful germs. They applied the frequency directly to the person using wired electrodes. By using this method, they were able to offer a more affordable, compact product. Early Rife instruments were very expensive and well beyond the financial reach of the average person, being meant for clinic use. Rife's first electrode device was deemed a huge success when medical doctors reported curing patients of terminal afflictions using his equipment. Rife's amazing discoveries pioneered the way for the modern ProWave Rife Model 101 Energy System.

In 1956, Dr. Rife wrote, "I have operated the frequency instrument since 1921. I have watched it advance in style and performance with the advancement of electronics. In the many years I have used this equipment in my research, I have never suffered an injury or any ill effect whatsoever. I found it reliable in performance and efficient in results. The most recent model is infallible and simple to operate." Can you imagine how Rife would feel now with the electronic advances made since 1956 along with the acceptance of the importance of the body's electrical meridians for healing?

We understand that like most people with health problems, you have tried every method that appeared valid until you sadly discovered they just didn't work as expected. It becomes discouraging and you get tired of hearing everybody's claims that their product is "different" and it really "works". Truth is, not every product works for everyone. We humans are each unique and chemistry varies. The one thing that will always stay the same is Rife's discoveries. The healing of any illness may require a combination of correct choices, and the ProWave Rife 101 may be the one thing that helps you find health and wellness.

If you eliminate the "source" of any illness, the body will heal itself. The list of Rife's frequencies was kept confidential until it was obvious that the medical powers in America wanted no part of a cheap, reliable (no drugs) treatment.

Before Rife died, he gave John Crane the legal rights to the frequency list. Crane released those details to the world in the early 1990s when he realized Rife's discoveries would never be made available to you. That is why the frequency patterns, previously proven by Royal Rife, are only available for your personal use with the ProWave Rife Model 101 and will never be used in your doctor's office.
